Sleeping Booty

Blue, brown, and white sheets are just the beginning of what's new in green decor.

By Christie Matheson | March 4, 2007

Luxurious organic-cotton bed linens from Loop are just a few of the earth-friendly items at Your Home, Your World, a new boutique in Concord, New Hampshire. There are wool blankets from Vermont Organic Fiber Co., a selection of low-emissions paints, Alkemi recycled-aluminum countertops, and accessories like trendy Transglass's vases, tumblers, and candleholders made from old wine and beer bottles. But back to the bedroom. Loop uses non-chlorine bleach to finish its soft white sheets and low-impact dyes to get colors like elegant chocolate browns and sophisticated pale blues. So you can rest easy.
